FACULTY

Congratulations to the sponsor and staff of the 1962 Ormazd. The cooperative spirit in which you have so diligently worked to complete this yearbook is something to be proud of. It is my sincere hope that each of you will continue to cooperate with your fellowman throughout your life in the same manner that you have in putting out this publication.

Best wishes to each of you.

Sincerely yours,

The Years Pass

In May of '59, thirty-seven sure-footed eighth graders took a big step from grade school to high school. In a few weeks, twenty-one of us expect to take an even bigger step to a future unknown.

As freshmen, we chose Loren Howell and Marilyn Powell for our King and Queen candidates for the Ormazd.

We did our part in sports. Lavern Baker, Marjorie Fish, Sharon Cooper, Betty Lacy, Dorothy Owens, Ada Proffer, and Betty Rush went out for volleyball on the "A" or "B" teams. Johnie Sturgeon, Jim Gould, and Dewaine Hinkle made the basketball team, and Lerrie Overton and Ronnie Kucera played baseball. Sharon Cooper was a cheerleader this year, supported by Pep Club members, a part of whom were Lavern Baker, Marjorie Fish, Betty Lacy, Marlene Mayberry, Dorothy Owens, Evelyne Porter, Ada Proffer, Eileen Varvil, and Donna Younger.

We lent our support to the music department, too. Genora Clippard, Marjorie Fish, Jackie Guthrie, Betty Lacy, Marlene Mayberry, Betty Rush, Eileen Varvil, and Donna Younger made sweet sounds with the Girls' Glee Club, while two lone boys, Robert Garner and Jim Gould, warbled with the Boys' Glee Club. Curtis Busche, Marilyn Powell, Betty Lacy, Sharon Cooper, and Gary Stilts for a year or more tooted horns with the band. Marjorie and Betty were also in the Operetta cast.

A trip to Lake Killarney ended our freshman year. Our sponsor was Mr. Day.

Only twenty-eight of us made the forward step into our sophomore year.

Some of us still took part in sports and Glee Clubs. Eileen Varvil and Dewaine Hinkle were in the coronation ceremony for the Queen of the Ormazd. Curtis Busche, the choice of his classmates, traveled to Jefferson City on the annual Sophomore Citizenship Pilgrimage. Sharon Cooper, escorted by Johnie Sturgeon, was a candidate for Basketball Queen. We and our sponsor, Mr. Austin, accompanied the junior class to Keeners Resort for an overnight trip.

During our junior year, eight more students stepped out of our line-up, but Gary Stilts joined us, coming from St. Louis.

We had Sharon Cooper as candidate for Ormazd Queen. Curtis Busche was her escort. We were deprived of the privilege of having junior and senior class plays because we had no gym. Perhaps we were spared many hours of hard work and practice, but we had anticipated parading before the footlights. Mrs. Sidwell was our sponsor when we were jolly juniors.

At last came our senior year, only one more year until we took the final step into the unknown. Only twenty-one had survived the past three years of school work.

This was the year of weddings. Betty Lacy became Mrs. Darrell Stepp in May, 1961. In September, Marilyn Powell became Mrs. Larry Cooper. At Christmas, Betty Rush and Ray Masters were married. Marilyn dropped out of school, and Betty Masters graduated at the half. Marlene Mayberry finished school by taking a correspondence course.

Finally in our senior year, Eileen Varvil, escorted by Ronnie Kucera, reigned as 1962 Queen of the Ormazd.

We furnished members for the Beta Club--Marlene Mayberry, Betty Rush, and Sharon Cooper as sophomores, Marjorie Fish as a junior, and Betty Stepp and Lavern Baker as seniors. Lavern was chosen a cheerleader this year, also.

When returning from Cape Girardeau on March 8, 1961, Curtis Busche, Robert Garner, Dewaine Hinkle, Lerrie Overton, and Robert Rea were involved in a car accident which necessitated medical attention and hospital care. Robert Rea didn't complete his junior year but returned as a senior in the fall of 1961 to do one and one-half years' work.

We are making this last year the most enjoyable year of high school. Along with our studies and activities, each senior has left his mark somewhere in the school. Maybe it is an initial on the water fountain or study hall table, or memories of our work on the school paper or this yearbook.

Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises are scheduled for the week of May 6. After the diplomas, our discharges from school, have been presented, we plan to travel south with Mrs. DuVall and Mr. Overton, our class sponsors.

Sooner or later, we shall recall the memories of Zalma High, and each will say to himself, "Bravo to the class of 1962."

Class Prophecy

It was June, 1981, and Evelyne Porter and I were on our way to Rome, Italy. As we stood at the airport in New York City, waiting for our plane to depart, Evelyne exclaimed that she had never been so thrilled in all her life. Finally, to be on our way for a tour of Rome was almost unbelievable. But, no, here we were. Only a few short hours from our dream city. What could be more exciting for a leading hair stylist and me, a wife and a mother of two small boys!

Finally, we arrived in Rome, and as we stepped from the ramp, I noticed a tall handsome man with dark hair and a small, neatly clipped mustache walking toward us. I couldn't help noting his striking appearance, and suddenly I recognized Curtis Busche. How the years had changed him! More handsome now, his hair darkened with the years, Curtis looked the typical bachelor playboy he was.

"Genora and Evelyne," he exclaimed. "It's been so long. How wonderful seeing you here!"

The three of us lunched together and as we sat talking of old times, a tall statuesque blonde, with steel blue eyes came into the restaurant. That face and figure could belong to none other than Marjorie Fish. She came to sit with us and as we talked, I found that she was now one of Rome's leading models.

We invited Marjorie to make a tour of some of the more famous Italian night clubs with us. She agreed and in the evening, we set forth.

Our first stop was a small lovely place, typically Italian. We chose a ringside table and seated ourselves comfortably to watch the show.

The curtains parted to reveal one of the most beautiful stage settings that I have ever seen. Then a line of lovely chorus girls danced onto the stage. The four leading girls looked very familiar and at closer scrutiny, I saw that they were Betty Masters, Ada Proffer, Dorothy Owens, and Marlene Mayberry. How different they looked, but of course it had been nineteen years. There were bound to be some changes in that length of time.

At our next stop, the top entertainer was Gary Stilts. "Gary usually gets top billing," Curtis explained to us. "He's very much in demand in Italy."

As I listened to Gary's jokes and watched him clown on the stage, I realized that he had become an outstanding comedian.

As we were on our way to the next club, Marjorie and Curtis told Evelyne and me that they had a wonderful surprise in store for us. We were taken to a night club, very unusual in appearance. Just before we entered, Evelyne turned to me, "Those two doormen standing there," she said. "Aren't they Robert Garner and Ronnie Kucera?"

"And now for the surprise we told you about," Marjorie said to us. "I'm sure you remember Eileen Varvil and Donna Younger. They own this club. I told them you were coming, and they have reserved a table for us."

As we entered, Donna and Eileen came to greet us. How beautiful they looked, dressed in the latest fashions, their hair perfectly done in the latest style.

"You have arrived just in time to see the floor show," Eileen told us. "I am sure you'll love the entertainment." And love the entertainment we did.

The girl singer walked slowly on the stage, her black dress clinging to her svelte figure. Her husky voice sounded rich and full as she sang her haunting torch songs. Who else but Sharon Cooper could deliver a song like that?

Sitting there, I couldn't help noticing one of the cigarette girls. She was an attractive thing, her flaming red tresses glowing in the dim lights. She came over to our table, smiling, her arms outstretched.

"Lavern Baker," I cried. "What has happened to your hair?"

"Oh! Donna and Eileen thought it would be better for business," she said. "And I love it. It makes me feel like a completely different person."

Later in the evening, Donna came back to our table. "There are six more of our old classmates here tonight," she said. "They are due in about thirty minutes. I'm sure you will love seeing them again."

In a short time, we were joined by Betty Stepp, Dewaine Hinkle, Robert Rea, Lerrie Overton, and Jim Gould. They spotted us immediately and hurried to our table.

Betty, looking very slender and very chic, seemed the same as always. She informed us that she was private secretary to a millionaire in Boston. "Darrell and I make our home there," she said. "He gave me this trip as an anniversary gift. He was all tied up in business matters back home and couldn't possibly get away just now, but I'm having a wonderful time anyway."

Lerrie and Dewaine, both generals in the United States Army, looked very military in their uniforms.

Robert and Jim were both successful businessmen and were accompanied by their wives.

In a few short moments, a large man entered the club. Thirty extra pounds and nineteen years could not disguise Johnie Sturgeon.

Johnie, now a professional gambler from Louisiana, was just the same as always, laughing and joking with everyone.

Yes, all of us had come a long way since that night in 1962 when we had received our diplomas and each had gone his separate way. Outwardly, not one of us was the same, but inwardly I am sure that none of us had changed at all.

Genora Clippard

Last Will and Testament

We, the seniors of 1962, sound in mind and judgment, as far as within us lies, do grant and bestow our vested rights, privileges, and claims to the high school at Zalma, Missouri, to our heirs, assignees, legatees, donors, and beneficiaries for whatsoever length of time they may spend behind its walls.

ARTICLE I. To the superintendent and faculty, we leave memories of our well-behaved class.

ARTICLE II. To the juniors, the chance of beating us in selling yearbook ads.

ARTICLE III. To the sophomores, a sidewalk to the smoking area behind the garage.

ARTICLE IV. To the freshmen, the ability not to get caught in skipping school. We never did.

ARTICLE V. To the junior high classes, full use of the new gymnasium.

ARTICLE VI. Each outgoing senior has, during his or her four years of attendance at Zalma High, accumulated a small legacy which he or she wishes to bestow upon some worthy, or luckless, student to whom the gratuity may be a windfall. They bequeath as follows:

Lavern Baker------Her 4-barrel carburetor to any 6-cylinder car.
Curtis Busche----- His grades to anyone who needs them.
Genora Clippard--- Her table at Green's to anyone lucky enough to get it.
Sharon Cooper-----Her parents' strictness to all "wild" students.
Marjorie Fish----- Her hard work in clerical practice to Pat Gowen.
Robert Garner----- His ability to play pool to Ronnie Moore.
Jim Gould--------- His singing ability to Webster Eaker.
Dewaine Hinkle---- His rubber bands to Danny Shipley.
Ronnie Kucera----- His smoking place behind the bus garage to Mr. Cato.
Betty Masters----- Her skill at catching a husband to some luckless old maid.
Marlene Mayberry - Her many hours of work on a correspondence course to someone wanting to graduate.
Lerrie Overton---- His girls at Gray Ridge to Bill Hanner.
Dorothy Owens-----Her trim figure to Dorothy Loyd.
Evelyne Porter---- Her ability to play volleyball to Barbara Scowden.
Ada Proffer------- Her slender figure to Ruby Bennett.
Robert Rea--------His fun in first hour study hall to Larry Dirck.
Betty Stepp-------- Her husband to nobody.
Gary Stilts-------- His place in the woods to Harold Mansker and Jim Lemons.
Johnie Sturgeon---- His good times in English Literature class to the juniors.
Eileen Varvil------ Her friendliness and charm to someone needing to smile.
Donna Younger ----Her seat in the office to Phillis Howard.
